ELSEVIER

Safety Science 17 (1994) 315–316

safety science

Contents Volume 17

Vol. 17, No. 1 (November 1993)

Editorial v
Proposed method to match physical test scores with the probable risk of a fatal fall
H. Nagata 1
Associations between occupational hazards detected with log–linear statistical methods
J. Takala 13
Quantification of the slip resistance of floor surfaces at industrial sites. Part I. Implementation of a portable device
S. Leclercq, M. Tisserand and H. Saulnier 29
Quantification of the slip resistance of floor surfaces at industrial sites. Part II. Choice of optimal measurement conditions
S. Leclercq, M. Tisserand and H. Saulnier 41
A review of log splitter safety
G.M. Owen and A.G.M. Hunter 57

Forthcoming Events 73
Translations Available 75

Vol. 17, No. 2 (January 1994)

Risk homeostasis theory – Beyond transportational research
T.W. Hoyes 77
Ignition of methane–air mixture by frictional sparks from light alloys
T. Komai, S. Uchida and M. Umezu 91
Occupational accidents and objective risk on North Sea offshore installations
T. Rundmo 103
Unfallgefährdung und -verhütung beim Gehen, Laufen, Tragen, Schieben und Ziehen im landwirtschaftlichen Betrieb
W. Hammer 117

Forthcoming Events 145

0925-7535/94/$07.00 © 1994 Elsevier Science B.V. All rights reserved

Translations Available 146

Vol. 17, No. 3 (March 1994)

Editorial i
Incentives in Swedish work environment regulation
C.H. Lyttkens 147
The behaviour of first-line supervisors in accident prevention and effectiveness in occupational safety
M. Simard and A. Marchand 169
Evaluation of a strategy. Preventing accidents with automated machinery through targeted and comprehensive investigations conducted by safety engineers
M. Döös, T. Backström and S. Samuelsson 187
MAIM: the concept and construction of intelligent software
J.C. Davies and D.P. Manning 207
Data collected by MAIM intelligent software: the first fifty accidents
J.C. Davies and D.P. Manning 219

Book Reviews 227
Forthcoming Events 231
Translations Available 236

Vol. 17, No. 4 (April 1994)

Editorial i
Safety climate in the road administration
T. Niskanen 237
The quality of work environment, supervision and safety in building construction
M. Mattila, E. Rantanen and M. Hyttinen 257
Vibration and jarring as a cause of back injury in the NSW coal mining industry
J. Cross and M. Walters 269
Forklift trucks — analysis of severe and fatal occupational injuries, critical incidents and priorities for prevention
T.J. Larsson and G. Rechnitzer 275
The effect of age on safety and work practices among domestic trash collectors in Québec
E. Cloutier 291

Forthcoming Events 309
Translations Available 311
Author Index Volume 17 313
Contents Volume 17 315